RAYMOND RHOADS SIGNS CONTRACT WITH DETROIT AMERICANS

ACE OF WILDCAT MOUND STAFF IS GOING TO TIGERS

No-hit, No-run Game Against Louisville Brings Many Offers to Star

BARNES, COLE, GILB SIGN DOTTED LINE

Hurler Will Not Report Until June, 1930, When College Career Is Ended

After guiding the destiny of the Kentucky Wildcat baseball team through one of the most successful seasons in its history, Raymond Rhoads, who is believed to be the best college pitcher in the South, has signed a contract with the Detroit Tigers in the American League to report for active duty in June of 1930, according to announcement made to The Kernel yesterday by Scout William F. Doyle, representative of the Detroit club.

Rhoads will return to the University next year to finish his course in the College of Arts and Sciences and to pitch for the 1930 Wildcat team.

Captain "Baldy" Gilb, Malcolm Barnes, and John L. Cole, have signed optional contracts with the Detroit club.

Result of No-Hit Game

Doyle was sent by the Tigers to see Rhoads in action after the no-hit, no-run game against the University of Louisville at the first of the season. He was present for the Kentucky games with Minnesota and Tennessee when Rhoads played a major role in the Kentucky victories. Representatives from the Cincinnati Nationals, St. Louis Nationals, and the Louisville American Association tried to sign Rhoads with their clubs after his sensational performance at the beginning of the season.

Rhoads will begin his big league baseball career at the salary of $400 a month. The contract was signed Saturday, April 18, following the Minnesota game. He will report for practice at Evansville, Ind., immediately following commencement exercises next June.

Has Brilliant Record

Raymond has been given credit for pitching seven games this year, five of which he pitched the complete nine innings. Among his more outstanding performances this season have been the no-hit, no-run game against Louisville, and his hurling in the Centre game. Rhoads went into the Centre game in the sixth inning with the score tied 3 and 3 and finished with Kentucky on top of a 7 to 3 score, holding Centre without a hit the rest of the way. He has a batting average of .302 this season and has been responsible for several two baggers.

Coach Pat Devereaux is responsible to a large extent for developing Rhoads, who is a right hander. Rhoads has plenty of steam and an assortment of drops, curves and "foolers."

Raymond, who is 21 years old, is the son of Prof. McHenry Rhoads, of 1435 South Limestone street.

The organization is making an attempt to bring the studies of international relations into the class room with a view of interesting the entire University in the relation of its country with foreign nations.

A sub-committee which will be appointed for the coming year at a later date, carries on the work of keeping the subject of international relations alive in the University. This committee has a representative in every college on the campus.

It was adapted for the stage by Ludovico Camoletti, and was subsequently translated from the Italian into English by Prof. W. F. Gallows, of the English department of the University. U. K. MEN PLAN SUMMER STUDY OF ARCHEOLOGY

Dr. Funkhouser and Prof. Webb Will Hunt for Relics in Logan County

SCIENTISTS TO WORK TOGETHER IN FIELD

Monograph on Ancient Life in Kentucky Will Be Released Soon

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate school and head of the zoology department, and Prof. W. S. Webb, head of the department of physics, will leave immediately at the close of this semester on their annual summer trip to make a study of Kentucky archeology.

Dr. Funkhouser and Professor Webb plan to work this summer in Logan county, in the southern part of the state. "We expect to find," said Dr. Funkhouser, "evidences of an ancient culture that existed in southern Kentucky and northern Tennessee, characterized by peculiar types of ceremonial mounds containing altars, remains of ceremonial fires, and interesting types of pottery burned with some sort of fabric. We think that we may be able to find the way the fabric was woven by impressions in the pottery."

The pottery was evidently made by covering the wet clay with a fabric to make it hold its shape until the piece was burned, the fabric being destroyed by the heat. To find the way in which the fabric was woven a negative impression is taken of the pottery, which, when placed under a microscope and photographed, produces a positive likeness of the original, and its weave may then be seen.

Dr. Funkhouser and Professor Webb will work together until the opening of the summer term, when Dr. Funkhouser will return and teach until the beginning of the second term. Professor Webb will then return and teach until the end of the summer school. In this way the work will be continued throughout the summer.

Dr. Funkhouser and Professor Webb have several papers of Kentucky archeology now on the press and expect to have enough material for an extended monograph on the subject with their additional work this summer.

MECHANICALS TO OBSERVE ANNUAL CELEBRATION

William H. Driscoll, of New York City, to Be Speaker at Assembly

PUBLIC MAY INSPECT SHOPS DURING DAY

Costume Carnival Ball Will Be Held Tonight in Men's Gym

"Engineer's Day" will be held today on the University campus, at which time the College of Engineering, under the direction of Dean F. Paul Anderson, will entertain students, faculty, and visitors with a complete all-day program, beginning in the morning with a general assembly and closing in the evening with a carnival ball in the Men's gymnasium.

The speaker at the morning assembly will be William H. Driscoll, of New York City, engineer architect and designer of the Woolworth building. This afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock the many departments in the College of Engineering will be open for inspection and the laboratory work of the engineers will be on display. Students from the college will be present to conduct the visitors to various points of interest, and pamphlets containing information about the work will be presented to all persons who inspect the buildings.

The Engineer's Carnival Ball, which will be held tonight, is an institution on the campus of the University, with all students attending in costumes and the Men's gymnasium elaborately decorated. The dance will be held from 9 to 1 and music for the event will be furnished by Toy Sanderfur's "Rhythm Kings" and "French" Givens' "Kentucky Wildcats."

Dean Anderson, who is in charge of arrangements for the day, has among other contributions to the College of Engineering organized a placement bureau which enables graduates from that college to attain positions of importance in the engineering world, and which has placed these same graduates at a premium among the best engineering concerns in the country.

Dean Anderson will be the principal speaker over the University remote control studio through station WHAS at Louisville from 12:45 to 1 o'clock today.

Members of the committee on arrangements are J. B. Dicker, chairman; J. W. Walters, J. C. Lindley, J. P. Mullaney, L. C. Berry, J. W. Pannel, B. F. VanMeter Jr., Miss Margaret Frye, R. D. Cook, L. H. Westerfield, O. F. Barkley, J. E. Barlow, and B. C. LeRoy.

Rhythm Kings Will Tour in Many Lands

Strange eyes will look upon University students this summer. The waters of the two mightiest oceans, the soils of a dozen countries, will play hosts to her sons. Dividing into three crusades, Toy Sanderfur will send two orchestras, bearing the banners of the University of Kentucky Rhythm Kings, on tours of Europe, which he will lead a third orchestra on a trip to the Orient. Members of the three orchestras will return to the United States in time to enter school in September.

They will also make the return trip by motor after disembarking at San Francisco via Los Angeles and El Paso. Sanderfur expects to carry the Kentucky colors along the coast of China, Japan, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, and Australia, playing one and two-day engagements at the principal cities.

A second orchestra, under the name of the University of Kentucky Rhythm Kings, led by Jack Rash, will sail from New York June 5 on the R. M. S. Berengaria, of the Cunard line, to disembark at Southampton. This orchestra will make the same tour as the Rhythm Kings made last year. They will probably play the greater part of the summer in the various European summer resorts. These five students will make the trip to New York by motor.

The third Rhythm Kings orchestra, under the leadership of Claude Marshall, will sail from New York June 8, on the Volendam, of the Holland-American line, to disembark at Amsterdam. They will spend the greater part of the summer playing in resorts of northern France.

The University of Kentucky students, the original Rhythm Kings, now playing at the Tavern, who will go on the tours, are Sanderfur, Rash, Marshall, Max Kerr, Gene Royse, Gene Warnecke and Pat Thompson.

Lois Purcell Wins Prize Offered by Kentucky Society

A prize of $100, offered in January, 1928, by the Kentucky Society of St. Louis, to students of Missouri colleges for the best essay on "The Influence of Kentucky and Kentuckians on the History of Missouri," has been won by Lois Purcell, of Paducah, Ky., according to an announcement made May 11.

The author of the winning essay is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, an associate editor of The Kernel, and literary editor of the Kentuckian for 1930. She is a transfer to the University from Christian College, Columbia, Mo.

The essays were submitted September 15, but because of the death of Mr. Breckinridge Jones, president of the society, the awards have just been made. Material for the article was obtained from the libraries of the St. Louis Historical Society, the Jefferson Historical Society, and the Kentucky Historical Society. It was read before the Racquet Club, of St. Louis, and voted on there before final confirmation by the committee.

EVANS ATTENDS LAW INSTITUTE

Dean Returns From Seventh Annual Meeting of Lawyers Held at Washington, D. C.

Dean A. E. Evans, of the College of Law, has just returned from a trip to Washington, D. C., where he attended the seventh annual session of the American Law Institute. Some six hundred judges, lawyers, and law professors from all over the country were in attendance.

The Restatement of further portions of the Law of Contracts, Torts, Agency, and Conflict Laws, was considered by the Institute. The Restatement of the earlier part of the Law of Property was likewise taken up, this subject appearing on the program this year for the first time. Next year portions of the Restatement of the Law of Trusts will be presented to the Institute.

There has never been as large or as enthusiastic attendance in the past as there was this year, said Dean Evans. Various courts in the country have adopted specifically the Restatement as the guiding principle involved for the solution of the problem in litigation. Recently Judge Stoll cited the Restatement in an opinion in the Fayette Circuit Court. Judge Logan, of the Court of Appeals, within the last few months has twice referred to the Restatement of the Law of Contracts, using it as a basis for his decisions.

Dancing Craze Is Spreading to Arabs

Jerusalem.—The modern dancing craze has spread to the Arabs of the Middle East, where the publication of the first book in the language of the desert denizens on "latest methods for learning modern dances" enables the city youth a few generations removed from the black, goat haired tent to keep up to date as the western man about town in the newest steps.

The Arab booklet was written by Naim Azar, member of the "Union of Dance Teachers" in France, and of the Academy of Dance Masters in Paris. The book has two prefaces written by Paul Raymond of the Paris opera, and Mme. G. Lefort, president of the Academy of Dance Masters in Paris. To judge by the keenness with which the East is studying the intricacies of the latest dances, the book should soon run into a few editions.

English Is Voted Most Valuable Subject By Yale Seniors; Psychology Least Useful

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale college seniors, according to the list of preferences in the annual class vote to be announced Monday in the Yale Daily News, prefer a Phi Beta Kappa key to a major "Y" earned in sports, incline towards Harvard as their favorite college next to Yale, and in answer to the question, "What man, now living, do you admire most?" cast a tie vote for Col. Seniors of the Sheffield Scientific School, according to the same announcement, voted to a tie in selecting President Herbert Hoover and Col. Lindbergh as their favorite world figure, prefer a major "Y" to Sigma Xi, and hold Princeton as their favorite college next to Yale. Their list of favorites in various fields includes d'Artagnan in fiction; Napoleon in history; "The Three Musketeers" among novels; Dumas among prose authors; "If" among poems, and Tennyson among poets. The class favors the Republican party over the Democratic party by a vote of 89 to 26.

Joseph E. Lowmes, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, was voted in the College as having done the most for Yale, and the member of his class most likely to succeed. Fred A. Simmons, Jr., of Boston, Mass., was voted the most popular, the most admired, and the hardest worker. Manasses J. Grove, of Frederick, Md., was voted the most versatile, the most modest and the best natured. The most original and the wittiest member of the class according to the votes is A. W. Griswold, of Morristown, N. J. The best looking and the greatest social celebrity is Hiram E. Manville, Jr., of Pleasantville, N. Y.

In the Sheffield Scientific School, John K. Beeson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was voted the man who had done most for Yale, and the one most likely to succeed. C. E. Halward, Jr., of Westtown, Pa., was voted the most popular, and tied with others as the hardest worker and the best looking. Charles D. Mahoney, of Lawrence, Mass., was voted the most brilliant and the most versatile.

MEMORIAL HALL

In the spring of 1919, when the smoke of battle had cleared away and the sound of marching feet was heard no more through the dismal and deserted ruins of rural France, a group of public spirited Kentucky citizens met to formulate plans for a permanent memorial to the sons of this great commonwealth who made the supreme sacrifice, "in the abiding hope that the memorial shall be a source of inspiration and helpfulness to the generations of young Kentuckians who shall, from year to year, seek education and leadership at the University, and to become at once a shrine at which men and women of the state henceforth shall bow in reverence and homage."

There were 2,726 Kentuckians who gave their lives in the various pursuits of the tragic European war in order that humanity might be free; that autocracy might not again menace the race and that the world might be a better place in which to live. Some of these are sleeping in ground that will be forever holy to Kentucky, whether it be in Chateau Thierry, Belleau Wood, Flanders field, on in the Argonne.

Nothing can rob our state of the heritage of their deeds, for as in the days when our pulses ran high at the news of a deed of daring, a signal accomplishment or an act of sacrifice on the part of one of our sons and daughters, so now are the heart-rending emotions of war days brought again to us as we gaze upon the magnificence of the Memorial Chapel.

This edifice was erected by Kentucky, "to give enduring vitality to her testimonial of pride in the courage of her fallen by establishing a new covenant of faith with her dead sons and daughters that shall memorialize them in enduring form and to useful purpose."

It is very fitting that the campus of the University is the site of this memorial, for of the state's quota of men serving in the World War, 1,069 were alumni and former students of the University. Of this number, twenty-one died in active service for their state and nation.

The University of Kentucky served her country well in the days of strife and turmoil, as did the entire state, for Kentuckians are always ready and eager to answer their summons to duty, to maintain the honor and further glory of the great United States, and to uphold the traditions of honor and bravery which have always been theirs.

With our heads bowed in reverence and our hearts atune with our brothers and sisters who answered the supreme call more than ten years ago, we, the students of the University of Kentucky, accept the sacred trust which has been made to us by the people of our state, and pledge our lives to the furtherance of those principles of glory and honor for which such a great sacrifice was made.

'TILL WE MEET AGAIN

It is the beginning and the end.

With a strange mixture of sorrow and happiness in their hearts, a lump in their throats, and probably nothing in their pockets, the members of the graduating class are making ready for departure from the sheltering halls of their alma mater into the wide, wide world.

For four years they have been cloistered in this institution of learning. They entered as boys and girls, they leave as men and women. They have learned many things in books, and many things not in books. Now they conclude the preparation, as have many before them. Now they go into the world to rise or fall, as have many before them. The future beckons them to fortune or misfortune, adventure or common-placeness, fame or ill fame.

To them The Kernel bids au revoir. With a figurative farewell pat upon the class shoulder, we give a final word of advice—do your best. "Your destiny is shaped by your own hands. As the man said to his last suspender button: "It all depends on you."

As for the undergraduates of the university:

The Kernel bids so-long. See 'y' again.

The freshmen are now sophomores, the sophomores juniors, and the juniors seniors. Each will go to his or her home with even greater gobs of collegiate apple-sauce dripping from his or her ears, respectively, than last vacation.

Vacations can be put to good advantage. Reading is one of the best educational entertainments that one can undertake during the summer. Travel is another. But don't fail to make it a vacation!

Enjoy the respite. Vent your pent-up energy. Bask in the sun. Sleep until 9 o'clock. But remember: September is only three months away. It is the prime duty of your existence to return to school. And the path of duty is the way to glory.

THE KENTUCKY ALUMNUS

A new publication, the Kentucky Alumnus, made its initial appearance upon the University campus this week. This periodical is devoted to the best interests of the alumni of this University. Mr. Raymond L. Kirk, editor and manager of the magazine, deserves much credit for his work in securing for the University an alumni magazine of such outstanding merit.

For years all of the alumni news was carried in The Kentucky Kernel, but with the constant growth of the University and the corresponding growth of the alumni and The Kernel some plan had to be worked out whereby both student body and alumni would receive the most benefit.

Accordingly the alumni page was removed from The Kernel and Mr. Kirk began his work as editor of the new publication. The first issue of The Kentucky Alumnus carries the following comment:

"In giving up the Kentucky Kernel as our organ, we naturally feel some little bit of sadness, for The Kernel is dear to the hearts of us all. Continuous growth is necessary in an organization like our association and we have grown to such an extent that we must graduate from The Kernel to a publication exclusively our own. To our minds we have made one of the most progressive steps for our association in several years. With the beginning of the Kentucky Alumnus we begin to take our place with the foremost alumni associations in the United States."

COLLEGE COMMENT

Theta, canine mascot of the University of Iowa School of Journalism, has given student reporters a news story. Theta's five sons, all news hounds, were born recently in the "hell-box" at the printing plant. Students named them, Who, What, When, Where and Why, elements supposed to be contained in every news story.

Instead of burning freshman caps at Ohio State University, the three hundred no-longer-necessary lids are to be donated to an orphanage. If the caps resemble in any manner the headgear of U. K. freshmen at the end of the year, the recipients are to be consoled rather than congratulated.

The original charter of Reserve University chapter of Sigma Delta Chi was lost ten years ago and its disappearance was somewhat of a mystery. Not until it had made its way across the sea, through the war, almost every country in Europe, and finally back to the United States did the charter return to the hands of its rightful owner. Ralph D. Kern, originally secretary of the order, misplaced the document in the bottom of his trunk before the war, and that trunk followed him throughout his travels during the World War.

LITERARY SECTION

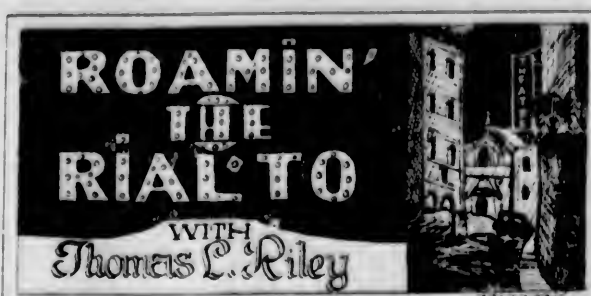

[MARGARET CUNDIFF, Editor]

"Pierre," or the Ambiguities, by Herman Melville. E. P. Dutton, New York, 1929.

People who regard Melville as the oasis in the desert of American literature, will welcome the news that "Pierre," suppressed for something like seventy years, has at last been released.

They will also wonder, perhaps, at the fact of the book's suppression. At a time when Hawthorne received censure from moralists for "The Scarlet Letter," however, it is not altogether strange that a novel dealing with a theme closely akin to that of Shelley's "The Cenci" should have been condemned and withheld from one hundred percent American victorians, especially a novel written with Melville's ruthless power. The remarkable feature in the book's suppression is that it should have been allowed to remain in obscurity while Cabell was securing the right to circulate "Jurgen," while "Prancing Nigger" went its rounds, while Huxley was preparing "Point-Counterpoint." With literature becoming more and more frank, and Melville becoming more and more appreciated, only the inaccessibility of "Pierre" can account for its long oblivion.

H. M. Tomlinson, in his preface to the current edition, calls "Pierre" a failure. Perhaps. In the author of "Moby Dick" one must expect unevenness of style to correspond to his wild unevenness of temper. That the idyll of Pierre Glendinning should evolve into a cruel, dark, horrifying drama, should not be surprising when the author is the creator of Captain Ahab. One may not enjoy "Pierre," even as one could not quite enjoy "Moby Dick." But one who thinks and is not afraid of his thoughts can not fail to be thrilled and awed and, in the strict sense, fascinated by this so long neglected work of Melville. —By MARIAN GALLOWAY.

This is the last time for some weeks that I will take my readers on a tour of Lexington's rialto and I must admit that I leave off this duty with a tinge of regret. It cannot be denied that any man likes to tell people how to conduct themselves regardless of whether they follow his orders or not.

I wish to express my appreciation to those kind hearted individuals who have been so considerate as to tell me that they not only enjoy reading this department but that they often took my suggestions seriously. Those few—and I mean few—more than make up for the vast army of plainspoken souls who told me that my work was rotten and that if I said a picture was poor they were sure to like it. To them I merely address a pardoning gesture.

It is always a matter of interest for a dramatic organization to give a special revival performance of a play and so to the Guignol theater I wish to convey best wishes for the two presentations of "The Flight of the Duchess" which they will give on June 1 matinee and night. I wish the play success.

The motion picture houses of Lexington will boast of two important attractions Sunday in "Lady of the Pavements" and "Wolf Song." Oddly enough, both of these pictures have that charming representative of Mexico, Lupe Velez, in featured roles. Most unusual. And what is even more unusual both productions are worthy of attention.

David Wark Griffith directed "Lady of the Pavements" for United Artists. Mr. Griffith is perhaps the best known director in the industry and yet he has produced some of the worst pictures. With "Drums of Love" he began to "come out of it" somewhat but then relapsed into the idiocracy of "The Battle of the Sexes," but in his latest effort his stock is again at par. "Lady of the Pavements" has an excellent cast of which the featured players are William Boyd, Lupe Velez, Jetta Goudal and George Fawcett. Mr. Griffith, in this picture, for the first time in years calls on his knowledge of the spoken stage as the production is an all talker. I must confess that I do not know the entire story except that it has a powerful climax. "Lady of the Pavements" will open at the Ben All theater Sunday and I recommend it to you.

I, as well as many others, thought that with the advent of the talkies the subtle reader would have to withdraw but now a new school of movie pests has been given life. They are composed of those who repeat the spoken lines after the players give them so as to make you miss the next one from the screen. Ladies and gentlemen, something must be done!

"Wolf Song," a Paramount picture, will open at the Kentucky theater Sunday and should enjoy a good run. It tells a story of the old West very much in the manner of "In Old Arizona" and co-features Gary Cooper and Lupe Velez. Louis Wolheim is also in the cast. Of course you remember Mr. Cooper as the hero of "Lone Star" and perhaps you will recall the first appearance of Miss Velez on the silver sheet in "The Gaucho" opposite Douglas Fairbanks. I trust that "Wolf Song" will be a better picture than either of the two mentioned. "Wolf Song" is an all talking production with several musical numbers and it has been received quite favorably everywhere it has been shown. You had better see it.

There ought to be a law against: Women in a motion picture theater who constantly discuss their operations during the picture. Crying babies in a theater. Small children whose parents al-

Dear Friends:
I have been a very heavy pipe smoker for the last thirty years, and have always used Edgeworth Tobacco (Plug Slice) and find there is no other tobacco like it for a cool and well flavored taste.

I am in the vaudeville business, and have traveled all over the world with my brother, and always have had very great pleasure in recommending your tobacco; and many a time I have had to pay double the price in different countries for it, but I would sooner do that than smoke anything else, as I have tried all different brands. I generally buy a one-pound tin and roll it up; and believe me, gentlemen, it is real tobacco.

And—you are probably saying—self appointed critics.

It was announced some time ago that Ramon Novarro was leaving the screen to take up grand opera but then the sound rush hit Hollywood and he was retained to let the microphone absorb his voice to the delight of fans. In "The Pagan," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which will open at the Strand theater Sunday, Mr. Novarro has the role of a half breed South Sea islander who has the happy faculty of bursting into song. "The Pagan" is said to be a very entertaining picture and it has a most absorbing—though time worn—plot. You will probably enjoy it.

Current Attractions
"Alibi." Ben All, United Artists picture. For intelligent drama enacted by a flawless cast see this one.

"Gentlemen of the Press." Kentucky, Paramount picture. Taken from the famous stage play and is really good. Excellent work from Walter Huston.

"The Shakedown." Universal picture, and "Girls Gone Wild." Fox picture, at the Strand. The first is in sound and the other is silent. Both are mediocre but it is a pleasure to see a silent picture again.

Wildcats, Maryville Will Play at Night

The University Wildcats will open their 1929 football season with a game to be played at night with the Maryville College on October 5, S. A. "Daddy" Boles, athletic director of the University, announced.

If this initial venture under the glare of the white lights is a success, the third game of the season, against Carson-Newman, will be played at night. Maryville has already agreed to play its game under the arc lights, while Carson-Newman is expected to be contrary in this respect.

The Wildcats already own four spotlights, under which night practices are held, and there will be augmented by eight more, according to specifications. This will make Stoll field as light as day, or lighter. The lights will be placed on top of the stadium directly behind it at a higher elevation.

Co-ed Describes Activities on U. K. Campus During the World War

Lois Purcell

When the Memorial chapel, erected in memory of the Kentucky heroes who gave their lives during the World War, is dedicated, May 30, another milestone will have been passed in the history which is now being made on the campus of the University of Kentucky. This building recalls to those whose memory goes back to the time of the outbreak of the war, pictures of the campus at that time.

Those of us who were in or near our cradles when the boys left for "Over There" (which, by the way, was most indefinite to the majority of us), must needs rely on the accounts of others as to the affairs of those days. Personally, my most vivid memory of the war days is the fact that newspaper headlines consisted of battles, troop ships leaving, lists of the wounded and dead, and other news concerning the maneuvers of soldiers, sailors, and politicians; and I often wondered if the papers would have to be discontinued when there was no longer such news to be published.

At this time many students and members of the faculty of the University were leaving for training camps and the front, and for a time it seemed as if the campus would be a very dull and deserted place. However, on May 8, 1918, the doors of the University were opened to the first detachment of the great army of men to be trained at the University for work across the sea, and for the following year the campus was a veritable war camp.

Barracks were erected on that part of the ground where Stoll field now is, and approximately 1,000 men at a time were stationed here for training as automobile mechanics, electricians, radio operators, carpenters and blacksmiths. Dean F. Paul Anderson, assisted by capable instructors, was able to teach these men during the eight weeks' training period to a degree that they were fitted not only for helping their country in time of war but also for following remunerative trades in the reconstruction days.

Classes were held each day, and at that time there was no pitching a nickle, "heads I go, tails I don't go to class," he man had to be there, he able to show a furious or other excuse from headquarters, or else be marked "A. W. O. L." which is just another way of saying that he was "S. O. L."

So crowded were the conditions on the campus, with the regular students as well as the members of the Student Army Training Corps to receive instruction, that it was necessary to erect a large tent over the circle of ground in front of the library where classes were held each day. This may sound like college in those days was just like going to the circus, but if you think it was, just ask some of the old-timers!

About 3,000 men were instructed on the University campus during 1918, and among these were found many aliens, several of whom had been drafted to fight against the countries to which they owed their allegiance. Provisions were made by Congress for waiving the naturalization requirements heretofore necessary, and plans were made whereby these soldiers could be naturalized immediately after induction into the service. These naturalization ceremonies were held on the campus.

The gymnasium building was converted into an improvised hospital in October of 1918, in order to care for the soldiers who were suffering from influenza. As many as 150 cases at a time were nursed, and only four deaths resulted from the epidemic. One man also died of measles while in training here.

It may easily be seen that the wartime campus was a vastly different place from that which we know today, and while some of it may sound very romantic, the majority of us are very thankful that we were too young at the time to know anything about it, and that "it's all over now."

J. F. Hardyman Gets New Library Bid

Danville, electric wiring, for $7,474. The remainder of the bids for completion of the structure will be received and opened at the meeting of the entire board of trustees here June 1, Dr. McVey has announced.

A total of 22 bids were considered by the committee, six for the general contract and the remainder for heating and ventilation, wiring and flooring. The bids were opened about 10 o'clock, and the committee was in session all day with the bidders before the contracts were let. Only one-half of the proposed library will be constructed this year. This half will cost approximately $500,000 including the furnishings and construction. The second half will also cost approximately $500,000, and this will make the cost of the entire building range around $1,000,000. The structure which will be of brick, steel and concrete, will be four stories high and will be located north of the Physics building.

Plans which have been adopted by the board of trustees have been under consideration for about three years and have been submitted to the best librarians for inspection. When the library is completed there will be room for 1,250,000 volumes of books, although there will only be room enough for 240,000 volumes in this first unit. There are to be reading, work and seminar rooms for the purpose of holding small advanced classes.

Kathryn McWilliams was chosen delegate of Chi chapter for the national bi-annual convention which will convene at Columbus, Ohio, June 25.

The Acceptance of the Memorial—Hon. F. D. Sampson, Governor of Kentucky.

In Memoriam—Reading of poem by Prof. Frank W. Fowler.

Benediction—The Rev. Mr. Hayes Farish, pastor of the Woodland Avenue Christian church.

Col. Charles H. Morrow is the chairman of the committee in charge of the dedication ceremonies. A procession will form in the office of President McVey at 3 o'clock, and will go from there to the Memorial chapel for the exercises. In this procession will be the speakers for the afternoon, members of the executive committee for the Memorial chapel, deans of the various colleges of the University, and members of the board of trustees, all of whom will be on the platform during the services.

The following patriotic committees are also participating in the exercises: American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, American War Mothers, Confederate Veterans, Daughters of the American Revolution, Grand Army of the Republic, Officers Reserve Corps, Patriots and Founders Society, Spanish War Veterans, Spanish War Auxiliary, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Sons of the Revolution, Sons of Veterans, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The Memorial chapel, which was recently completed at a total cost of $135,000, is of red brick with white trimmings, and has four large white pillars across the front which bring out the Colonial type. It has a frontage of 60 feet, and a length of 143 feet. The tower, rising above the entrance, is 130 feet high. The auditorium is 85 by 57 feet, with a height of 30 feet.

The plans for the building were prepared by Warner and Mitchell of Cleveland, Ohio, and was constructed by the J. T. Jackson Lumber company of Lexington.

In the vestibule of the chapel are two large glass-covered wall cases, containing the names of those Kentuckians who died in the World War, and to whom the chapel was erected. The names are written on parchment fastened on the wall. The poem by Mrs. Wood is also to be placed in the vestibule of the building.

A large clock near the top of the tower, and having a face on each of the four sides of the tower, has been installed, and it is synchronized with the clock and bell system of the campus. The clock can be seen from any point on the campus, and is one of the most attractive features of the chapel.

Due to unforeseen delays the organ, which will be installed in the chapel at an early date, will not be ready for the dedication exercises. This organ, which is a three-manual type, is one of the best obtainable. The auditorium of the chapel, which is equipped for motion pictures, lectures and concerts, has a large stage which opens onto the amphitheatre in the rear of the building, and is equipped with amplifiers which will enable a crowd of approximately 2,000 people to enjoy the program. The building has a seating capacity of 1100. Opening from the stage are anti-rooms, which can be used as dressing rooms for entertainments.

There are several large rooms in the basement of the building, one of which houses the furnace. Other rooms will probably be used for storage of Stroller material, costumes, and stage sets.

Funds for the erection of the Memorial chapel were started in the spring of 1919 by a general committee of fifty men and women from all sections of the state. Edward W. Hines, former head of the State Council of Defense, was chosen as chairman, and C. N. Manning, president of the Security Trust Company, of Lexington, was made the chairman of the executive committee. Prof. William E. Freeman, assistant dean of the College of Engineering, was general manager of the campaign.

The subscription opened on June 10, 1919, and interest of the student body in the proposed memorial was so marked that they organized a campus campaign, and subscribed $3,500 during the commencement week of that year. Members of the faculty added $4,500.

Several states have erected memorials on the campuses of their respective universities, in honor of those who fell on the battlefield. With the dedication of this building on next Thursday, Kentucky will step in line with her sister states to honor the sacrifice of those who died that their country might live.

DEBATING TEAM MEETS

The University debating team will hold its final meeting of the year at 7:00 o'clock Monday night in room 231, McVey hall.

Plans are nearing completion for the commencement exercises to be held at Kentucky Wesleyan College June 2, 3 and 4. Dr. Daugherty, pastor of the First Methodist church South, Lexington, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon Sunday, June 2, at the First Methodist church, Winchester.

Bishop U. V. W. Darlington, of the M. E. church, and a former president of Wesleyan, will give a memorial address at the unveiling of a bronze tablet in honor of Prof. B. T. Spencer, deceased, June 3. This will precede the annual, alumni banquet.

The commencement address will be given by Dr. Frank D. Stutz, of Dayton, Ohio, on June 4. His subject will be "Five Favorite Fictions."

There are over fifty members in the graduating class, most of them from Kentucky.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY MAKES AWARDS TO ESSAY WINNERS

Mr. Robert B. Stewart, of Morehead Teachers' College, was awarded first prize in the essay contest conducted recently by the Lexington Section of the American Chemical Society. Miss Beulah Threlkeld, of Georgetown College, submitted the second best paper. According to the committee of judges appointed to select the prize essays, there were eleven papers submitted, all of which were of the highest quality, indicating careful work upon the subjects treated. The judging committee was composed of Charles Barkenbus, J. R. Mitchell and C. M. Siedel.

'Cats and Cards Tie In Fifteen Innings

The University of Kentucky Wildcats and the Cardinals of the University of Louisville, fought for fifteen innings last Thursday afternoon on Parkway field, home of the Louisville Colonels, but when darkness finally halted the game neither team had scored. Ray Rhoads pitched the entire contest for the 'Cats and Harvey Jeffries went the route for the Redbirds.

The diamond was somewhat slow, due to the heavy rain of the previous day, but the game was one of the best-played affairs of the current season. Hits and errors alike were few and far between. Rhoads allowed the Cards but four hits, two of which were of the scratch variety, and all of which were scattered. The men of Devereaux achieved eight bingles from Jeffries. Covington's two-bagger was the only extra base hit of the game.

The only serious threat to score by either team was made in the extra innings. In the eleventh, Brennan singled and was advanced to third but died there leaving the Cards scoreless. Covington opened the thirteenth for Kentucky with a double but was also stranded after reaching the hot corner. In the opening game of the year, Kentucky blanked Louisville, 3 to 0, when Rhoads held them hitless and runless.

Kentucky Track Record for 1929 Shows One Victory as Against Three Defeats

The record book of varsity athletics closed on another track season at the University of Kentucky last Saturday showing a balance of one victory against three defeats. The three losses were suffered at the hands of Southern Conference opponents while the single win was scored over Georgetown, a member of the S. I. A. A. In losing to Vanderbilt and Tennessee, the Wildcats were badly outscored. In the Sewanee meet they held their own up to the last event, the mile relay, which proved their undoing.

Handicapped at the start with the difficult task of creating a well-balanced team from a group composed largely of inexperienced men, Coach Bernie Shively set bravely to work only to run upon one snag after another in the shape of incalculable injuries.

Thomasson Takes Ill
Almost at the start of the season Wayman Thomasson, one of the outstanding middle distance men of the South, suffered an attack of pneumonia and was lost to the team for several weeks. He was able to score ten points in the opening meet with Georgetown but missed the Vanderbilt struggle because of the death of his father. Twaddell, a consistent scorer in the mile and two mile runs, was forced out before the season was half over by a broken arm, the result of an automobile accident.

Strong in the middle distances and field events, the 'Cat thrives were woefully weak in the dashes and hurdles and as these events are usually run off first, they found themselves with a handicap of twenty or thirty points to overcome in the course of a meet.

Owens, running the half-mile and mile, and Thomasson the four-forty and half-mile, finished up the day by running in the mile relay which made it almost impossible for the relay team to turn in any real good time.

In the opening meet with Georgetown, the Wildcats rolled up seventy-two points against forty-five for the Tigers. Hays Owens, with fifteen points, was high point man of the day while Urevig and McLane scored two first apiece.

Varsity Outscored Frosh
A varsity-frosh meet took up an unscheduled week end with the varsity having a twenty point margin.

Vanderbilt's Commodores brought a well balanced team to Lexington for the second meet of the year and snowed the 'Cats under by a score of 81 to 35. "Tiny" Urevig pushed for the first time in the shot put, tossed the ball 41 feet and some inches for a new state record and a first place.

Kentucky's entry in the Georgia

Tech Relays carried off third place in the two mile medley relay with a team composed of Owens, Thomasson, and Twaddell. Sewanee's Tigers avenged themselves for last year's defeat at the hands of the Wildcats when their relay team came down the stretch in front place to take the dual meet by a five point margin.

In the last dual meet of the year, Tennessee, fresh from a victory over Vanderbilt, ran up 74 points to Kentucky's 45. Owens, Thomasson, McLane and Urevig performed brilliantly to keep the Blue and White in the running. McLane leaped 21 feet, 11 1/2 inches to win the broad jump in his best official jump of the year. Owens and Thomasson were, at their best in the half mile and four-forty dashes, respectively, to cop first place in these two events. Urevig won the shot put and took second in the discus.

Three Men Go South
Last Saturday, three of Coach Shively's headliners performed at the Southern Conference meet at Alabama and managed to account for three points, scored by Thomasson in the half-mile. Owens in the two mile and Urevig in the shot put were unable to place.

While the 1929 season can hardly be termed a success, a glance into the future will show the Wildcat star in the ascension and the team of 1930 will be hard to beat. The squad will not be hit by graduation and a well rounded freshman team will furnish several sprinters and hurdlers to bring the varsity squad up to par. With Coach Bernie Shively at the helm fans may rest assured that each and every man on the squad will be giving the best he has to put the Blue and White on top.

"Trainer" Mann Has Been Good Samaritan For Many University of Kentucky Athletes

And it came to pass that Trainer Mann cast out six "charley horses" and the maimed athlete again went forth to battle with a whole body and the fragrant odor of camphorated oil.

When the smoke of battle rises from Stoll field, the Good Samaritan of the University, who retires to the seclusion of the basement of the Men's gymnasium while the honors are being dishied out, makes his rounds and pours oil on the wounds of those left lying by the wayside. Trainer Mann has been playing good samaritan to Wildcat teams for five generations.

Kentucky athletes are remodeled, rejuvenated, reborn, or repaired on the ironing board in Trainer Mann's fountain of youth. Services offered include jacking up of fallen arches, waistlines and face lifting. Trainer Mann has accumulated a medicine chest that would do credit to the office of many an ambitious physician, but he relies on his system of chiropractic and the assistance of two husky young men to iron out the wrinkles. Sprains of all sorts, bruises, charley horses, stiffness, scratches, cuts and sores of all kinds and locations are treated by Trainer Mann. His bucket of oil, his iodine mop, and his knowledge of battered athletes, are his chief assets.

"Trainer," as he is known to the world of aches and pains, was dashing energetically about the stock rooms of Marshall Field, in Chicago, back in 1901. Filling orders for jeans, corsets, and long-tail coats offered little variety and when young Frank found out he could help the trainers at the University of Chicago massage tired muscles, he began spending his evenings in the training room. These evenings were so profitably spent that athletic officials gave him a full-time job and he bade goodbye forever to Mr. Marshall Field. For six years tired legs marched into the Chicago dispensary and hopped spiritedly under the healing touch of Frank Mann.

"Daddy" Boles found Trainer ironing out knotty muscles at Purdue five years ago and convinced him that Kentucky needed a first-class dry cleaner. Trainer left Purdue, where he had been for four years, and made his home in Lexington. His ability has been recognized by Lexington physicians, who turn their "impossible" cases over to him for correction.

When the last muscle had been thoroughly baked on the diathermy machine on Traine, operating table he goes to his home on Columbia avenue to his wife, six-year-old daughter, Treese, Jane, and his 100 buff chickens. Sixty-five young buff are already chirping and galavanting about Trainer's home and he is anticipating the arrival of others soon.

Trainer makes all the football trips, part of the track journeys, and the southern basketball tournament. James Brooks and Morris Levin are practicing the gentle art of soothing out pains under Trainer's tutelage. The ironing board in the gymnasium basement might be a refuge for tired business men if the movement could be started.

Brown Leads Louisianians to Top in S. C. Meet; Thomasson Scores Only Points for Kentucky.

Led by the fleet-footed Brown, the Louisiana State University retained the championship of the South in the Southern Conference track meet last Friday and Saturday.

Louisiana collected 35 points while North Carolina, third last year, got 32 1/2 points for second place. Auburn, with its famous scoring pair, Beard and Virgin, was third in the meet. This pair were probably the most outstanding performers of the afternoon, winning first and second in both hurdle events. Beard also won the gold medal in the broad jump. His partner, Virgin, got fourth in the high jump.

Washington and Lee and Georgia ranked as dark horses before the meet, but came through with many well earned victories to make the meet one of the most interesting that has ever been held. Mississippi Aggies failed to live up to their expectations and were forced to sixth place in the meet.

Kentucky's track team, Urevig, Thomasson and Owens, finished with the rest of the scorers. The Wildcats' only score came when Thomasson finished third in the half-mile to collect three points.

Probably the most interesting race of the day was the one-mile relay in which Washington and Lee nosed out the Commodores of Vanderbilt in one of the closest finishes of the day.

Vanderbilt's team started off as in previous meetings, getting away out in front and feeling that another victory was in their long string, but when the fourth lap started things seemed to have picked up for the Generals. Williams, star basketball and football man, was running anchor man for the Generals and it was by his sprinting finish that he broke the monopoly of winning relays for Vanderbilt.

Those who saw this race will surely remember the handicap that Williams overcame.

VANDY, AGGIES ALSO WANT GAMES

The Wildcat basketball team next winter will face one of the most difficult schedules that a Kentucky team has ever arranged. Games have been scheduled with the outstanding teams in the Southern Conference, among which are Georgia, Washington and Lee, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, and Clemson.

The Wildcats will also have an intercollegiate series with Creighton University, champions of the North Central Conference. These boys are considered one of the most powerful teams in the country. Coach Mauer hopes to make this an annual affair.

The Wildcats will play ten home games and three away from Lexington, Mississippi A. and M. and Vanderbilt have asked for games with the Wildcats and if these are scheduled they will be played in Lexington.

Spring Practice Now on
Spring basketball practice got under way Monday with about fifteen men reporting. Coach Mauer called spring practice in order that his men may become familiar with the new offense that he hopes to use next year.

The lettermen who reported were Spicer, Combs, Owens, "Big" McGinnis, "Little" McGinnis and Milward. Captain McBrayer will be unable to come out for spring practice due to the fact that he is a member of the baseball team. The freshman numeral men who answered the first call were Klesler, Bell, Yates, Phillips, Thorn, Townsend, Kendall and Little.

Prospects for a winning team next year have never been better. With every member of the varsity returning to school and with the good material coming up from the freshman team, Coach Mauer is very optimistic over the chances for a championship team next year.

The tentative schedule for next year:
Dec. 14—Georgetown—here.

'CATS MEET CINCINNATI NINE IN TWO TILTS

SERIES WILL END KENTUCKY'S SEASON

Coch Pat Devereaux and eighteen men comprising the Wildcat baseball team will leave this morning for the Queen City of Ohio where they hunt up the Bearcats of the University of Cincinnati for a baseball game this afternoon. These two clubs will return to Lexington for the second game of the series which will be played on Still field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The game today was originally scheduled to be played on May 4 but rain caused its postponement. After the two games with Oglethorpe had been cancelled on Monday, "Daddy" Boles immediately got in touch with the Cincinnati officials and the series was arranged. These two contests will terminate the Kentucky season which was abbreviated to eleven games.

The 'Cats may expect some real opposition in these two frays. The University of Cincinnati was a cradle for the ambitions and talents of Ethan Allen, speedy outfield star of the Cincinnati Reds, who made good in his first attempt, stepping directly from college to a regular berth on a major league club. The Ohio roster probably contains many other embryonic Cobbs and Speckers who intend to show the Kentuckians baseball "as she is played."

The Bearcats hold victories this spring over a number of the best collegiate nines in the North and Middle West. This brace of battles likewise tops off their schedule and needless to say they are anxious to round out the season with triumphs over a team that is recognized as one of the best in the South.

Ray Rhoads, who last week held the Louisville Cardinals to four hits in fifteen innings, will probably be on the mound in the opening game. Highland Paul McBrayer, the singing Scot, will be sent to the firing line in an effort to quiet the tempestuous bats of the invaders in the final setto. Barnes and Augustus will share the catching duties.

The infield material on which Coach Devereaux will depend to plug the gaps of the diamond are Captain Baldy Gilb, Cole, Covington, Toth, Kruger, Mauser and Beard. The outfield will be guarded by Kellogg, Trott, Layman, Kelley and Murphy. McMurray and Grider are the reserve pitchers.

Stars Developed by Frosh Track Coach

Yearling Tracksters Expected to Bolster Varsity Team; Win Both Meets

Kentucky should have one of the strongest track outfits in the South when the stars of the undefeated freshman team turned out by by Coach M. E. Potter joins the ranks of the varsity thimble next year.

The frosh had only two meets, both of which they won by a good margin on the local field. In these meets, with the Georgetown and Centre freshmen, several members of the Kitten squad displayed remarkable ability for the amount of training and experience they had absorbed. Such combinations as Urevig and Wright, both of whom are put the shot better than 40 feet, will appear on the field next spring.

GAMES CANCELLED

The two baseball games which the Wildcats were scheduled to play against the Oglethorpe Petrels on Tuesday and Wednesday were cancelled at the request of the Oglethorpe authorities. The athletic director, in a long distance conversation with "Daddy" Boles on Monday, stated that the majority of the Petrels' games away from home had been rained out and the team was traveling at such a loss it was necessary that the remainder of the schedule be cancelled.

11 inches and may improve his height, since he was handicapped by a bad ankle throughout the entire period of training. Thorn and Pidecock will be dangerous rivals to Thomasson and Jones in the 440 and half-mile events. Bryant will be a greatly needed running mate to Owens, a fleet pair that will be hard to outrun. Harold Butler bids fair to be an able successor to Lewis Root, former hurdle star of Kentucky. Butler should lead all the boys in timber-topping, having shown his heels to all opponents including the varsity hurdlers during the past season. Kelly will develop into an able sprinter if he continues the good work he started this spring.

Coach Potter states that these men compose the best freshman team that has represented the University during his connection with the athletic department since 1926. The Wildcats have a good team from which they lose little material through graduation. With the support of the freshmen the prospects for Bernie Svihely's proteges are very rosy.

Kentucky Enjoys Success on Court In 1929 Season

The University of Kentucky tennis team, completed its most successful season in the history of University tennis Monday by defeating the St. Xavier net stars. The first match between the two schools was postponed because of rain. Last Friday Coach Downing's team defeated the racqueters from Hanover College of Indiana by a score of 6 to 0.

A successful southern trip at the beginning of the season marked the first extended journey ever taken by the Wildcat tennis team. On this trip the only losses of the season were chalked up against the Kentucky boys. The first of these defeats was suffered at the hands of Alabama, one of the strongest court aggregations in the South. The other team holding a victory over Kentucky is Georgia Tech, which was played after an all-night automobile ride on the part of the Kentuckians. Three victories, however, made up for these losses. The victims were Howard College in Birmingham, Maryville College and Union College.

A clean record since their return home has given Captain Hammsley and his teammates a record of 13 victories and 2 defeats. They hold the championship of Kentucky and victories over four out-of-state teams.

The record made this year was due largely to the efforts of its Coach, Prof. H. H. Downing. The manager of the team is Bruce Caulkins and the squad is composed of Rawlings Ragland, Joe Kee, Dwight Hammsley (c), Earl Senff, Clay Brock and Carey Spicer.

Intramural Sports

Turning in a list of victories in athletic conquests that practically doubled those of any other fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon was awarded the first intramural participation trophy this week by M. E. Potter, director of intramural athletics. The S. A. E.'s finished the year with a total of 420 points.

The cup, a 42-inch trophy valued at $220, will be the property of the S. A. E.'s until it is won by another fraternity. The cup will become the permanent possession of any fraternity winning it three times. The participation system, instituted at Kentucky by Coach Potter for the first time in the past year, proved its success in that 1,022 men took part in the various athletic contests, between 70 and 80 percent of the male enrollment of the University. The fraternities are placed into divisions according to their past athletic records to make the contests balanced.

The final standings of the organizations this year, with the exception of diamond ball and spring tennis, which are not complete yet, follow:

Sigma Alpha Epsilon	420
Alpha Tau Omega	222
Phi Sigma Kappa	180
Alpha Sigma Phi	176
Pi Kappa Alpha	163
Delta Tau Delta	159
Sigma Chi	154
Phi Kappa Tau	119
Kappa Sigma	112
Delta Chi	111
Phi Delta Theta	97
Triangle	53
Sigma Nu	38
Alpha Gamma Rho	39
Sigma Beta Xi	21
Alpha Gamma Epsilon	19
Kappa Alpha	14

Showing their superiority in more forms than one, the S.A.E.'s won the intramural championship in volleyball, track, and free throwing. The A. T. O.'s went in for the rough stuff to win the boxing and wrestling crowns. Pi Kappa Alpha Indians won the basketball tournament and the fall tennis doubles and singles went to Delta Chi with Johnstone and Crouch winning the Doubles and Crouch taking the singles.

Devereaux Players Stage Successful Diamond Performances This Spring

When Coach Pat Devereaux and his Wildcat nine go into action this afternoon against the Cincinnati Bearcats, they will carry with them an imposing record of seven victories, one tie, and a lone defeat. The two games with the Ohioans will complete the 1929 diamond season.

Kentucky and the University of Louisville cooperated to put on the curtain-raiser. Big Ray Rhoads entered the spotlight first and soloed through a wonderful performance assisted by a sparkling chorus of infielders and outer gardeners. Rhoads untwisted his mighty right arm in the face of the Cardinal batters holding them hitless, runless and walkless, while his mates gained a 3 to 0 encore from the visitors.

In the second scene, the Minnesota Gophers scammed across the stage with the Wildcats in hot pursuit. When the chase reached the wings in the ninth inning, the Kentuckians had gained a 5 to 1 margin. The 'Cats next performed in the Centre College theatre with Paul McBrayer in the leading role. The Scotchman offered few hits and his initial melodrama was a success, 10 to 3.

The Wildcat troupe then turned into a road show, journeying into Nashville to put on a double-header act with Vanderbilt. Kentucky produced the most hits in the first production and won 16 to 10. In the second contest, the Commodores starred and McBrayer suffered his first humiliation by an 8 to 3 reception.

The Devereaux players then returned to their own campus playhouse and staged another comedy with Centre's Colonels as the defeated villains. The Singing Scot was in the limelight with a 7 to 3 triumph. The Vols from Tennessee vied with the Wildcats in their next offering. But Rhoads and McBrayer crowded them from the audience's vision with a brace of victories. The scores were 11 to 1 and 5 to 4, the final act going an extra inning for the decision.

Kentucky then went to Louisville for their second game with the Cardinals. "The Great Rhoads" attempted to repeat his former accomplishment. He held the Redbirds to four hits in fifteen innings but his teammates failed to do any damage to the offerings of Jeffries and the game ended in a scoreless tie.
